If you have not experienced the magic of the Music Hall, we cordially welcome you, the Gentry of this fair City, and those lying beyond the confines of this City, to behold tonight our current Melodrama, "EXPOSED TO DANGER," or "Little Nell in the Klondyke." From the moment you enter our doors, you will experience a world of yesteryear, recapturing the Victorian splendour of plush velvets, soft gas lights, hand-painted murals and marble—whereupon you can spend a pleasant interlude in the graciousness of "The Handle Bar" cocktail lounge, with its opulent decor and glimmering, ruby-red stained-glass lamps.

Graciously-attired hostesses will escort you to your table, where you will then encounter the lush atmosphere of gaiety and grandeur while wandering minstrels will further enhance the mood with songs of bygone days.

To fulfil your every wish, our food and wine waiters offer their services to assist you to select from our plenteous Menu (á la carte) and accommodating Wine List.

At 8.30 p.m. our curtain rises to reveal our fun-packed Melodrama—hissing the villain, cheering our hero and lending your wit at appropriate moments are encouraged.

Drivers of horseless carriages coming from the City or King's Cross area are advised to follow Lane 1 over Sydney Harbour Bridge until the first turnoff to Manly—at this point make a right-hand turn towards Manly. You are now entering Falcon St., which connects with Military Rd., Neutral Bay Junction. Proceed for ½ mile along Military Rd. to the Music Hall.

Bus Nos. 245-248. Alight at the Music Hall.
